WEDNESDAY, MAY 23, 1855.

The editor of the Indianapolis Journal said that the people of the free States would give up their territory as a hunting-ground for slaveholders to catch their fugitive slaves, but would have no agency in the restoration of the fugitives. From this we took it for granted hat they would not consent that their courts and juries should have anything to do in any case with trying the rights of fugitives to free-

But the Indianapolis editor tells us that we are mistaken. He says, that, when a fugitive slave is arrested on free soil, the people there will insist on coming in with their courts and juries to try his title to freedom. Now as the editor assures us that the people of the free States will under no circumstances exercise any agency in remanding fugitive slaves to bondage, and as he assures us at the same time that they will insist upon having their courts and juries sit upon every case of arrest, we really fear the inference is inevitable that he would have the courts and juries, in spite of their oaths, decide in favor of the freedom of every fugitive arrested, no matter what the testimony might be. If such a condition of things were to prevail, why then, for every fugitive slave arrested, there would be a perjured court and jury in a free State. And, if a brisk business should continue to be done in the pursuit, arrest, and trial of fugitives, a large proportion of the population of the free States would soon damn their souls with horrible perjury. When a majority of them shall have done this, we don't know but even we shall be in favor of a dissolution of the

We find in that very violent and very silly Abolition organ, the Buffalo Express, the following reply to our late suggestions in favor of a compromise between the North and the

The Louisville Journal thinks that if the North wishes to modify the fugitive slave law a compromise can easily be effected with the South. Its reasoning is all very well—it is characteristic; but the Journal ought to know by this time that we want no more compromises with the South, and that the unconditional repeal of the oppressive enactment in regard to fugitives will suit the North much better than a mild and trifling modification thereof. It does not become the North to play at bo-peep with the South any longer. It is time we looked it full in the face, and we intend to do so.

We expected nothing better than this from such papers as the Express. We never think of them when we think of compromise, conciliation, adjustment, patriotism, moderation, and common sense. They do not want the controversies between the North and the South settled. They would like to see the Union dissolved because they think perhaps that they would be this subject some months since, and are now small republic than they are in a large one. The Buffalo editor is for of the views then stated. It is the interest of trampling on the Constitution, bidding defiance to the South, and proclaiming at once that hereafter there shall be no restoration of fugitive slaves. A traitor so vile deserves a traitor's

THE PATRONAGE OF ROYALTY .- There are thousands and thousands of "sovereigns" among the subscribers to the Louisville Journal, and we have at length the pleasure of announcing that we have placed upon our list the name of a king, one of the actual monarchs of the earth. His Majesty sent us his name through his Minister Plenipotentiary to the Government of the United States; and the Minister, in the execution of his instructions, informed us in very flattering terms that his royal master was anxious to receive our paper from having read in it an admirable article in relation to the affairs of his own kingdom. The monarch's credit would have been good with us to any amount, yet, with a consideration that many persons of more humble rank might well imitate, he sent us the subscription money in advance. May he live a thousand years, and may we have the privilege of writing his obituary in the columns of his and our favorite paper. Ah, if all the kings and queens of the earth would only subscribe for the Louisville Journal and read it attentively, what a capital world this would soon get

COAL BARGES .- The Circuit Court of the United States for the western district of Pennsylvania, in the case of Jones et al. vs. Cincinnati Coal Company, have recently decided that coal barges, being large rough trunks or boxes, made merely for transporting coals, and usually sold for lumber at the end of the voy-, and not having any coasting license, are not the subject of admiralty jurisdiction.

Mr. Mason, our Minister to the Court of France, has returned to Paris from Nice considerably improved in health.

We beg Lizzie's pardon for having printed her name "Sissie" in publishing former pieces of her poetry, but it was pretty much the fault of her own chirography. We are always glad to hear from her. She is a young girl of true genius:

[For the Louisville Bulletin.1 THE FORSAKEN.

Ah! dearest one, in this midnight deep Pale thoughts of the past around me sweep; Soft, soft, and low, on my listening ear Thy flute-like tones seem murmuring here, And they sadly whisper that hope is o'er, And my heart must dream of thy love no

My spirit is pining in sadness now. The light is fading from off my brow; Oh hast thou forgot, is thy soul now free, Sweeps over thy spirit no thought of me? Still beats my heart, though it beats in vain, For thy image is stamped upon heart and brain * * * * * * *

The home of thy love, ah ruined that shrine, My soul cannot cherish a false heart like thine, There's no melody now in thy silvery tone, It thrills not a chord in a heart once thy own: Its music is hushed, the illusion is o'er, I may look on thy face, but can love thee no more

The weil has been stripped and the mask thrown aside, I have looked on a being of falsehood and pride, I know thee all heartless, and, cold as thou art, Thou reignest no more in this wild, wayward heart; I love thee no longer, I'll try to forget, But bitter the parting—I worship thee yet!

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS .- Much has been said and written about this interesting group of islands in the far-off ocean. England, France, and the United States have each regarded them with favor, and established commercial relations with them. There has been manifested of late by the fillibuster portion of our people a desire to absorb or annex these islands to the United States, but the movement has not met with favor from the sober, thinking part of the nation. We can obtain by treaties guaranteeing the independence of the Hawaiian Government all the advantages that would result from annexation without incurring the expense, trouble, and complications that would flow from the adoption of that measure. The late king was favorable to annexation, but his successor, the present king, is opposed to it, and in that opposition he is sustained by the members of his privy council; and the chief justice, Mr. Lee, is also adverse to it. Mr. Lee is now in the United States to treat on the proposition to annex the islands to the Government of the United States.

The principal object of Mr. Lee's mission we understand to be the negotiation of a treaty of special reciprocity between the Sandwich Islands and the United States, which will admit the sugar and molasses of the Islands into California and Oregon free of duty, in return for which the Islands propose to admit the fish, lumber, coal, flour, grain, and other breadstuffs of the United States free of duty. In other words, they propose free trade in certain specific articles, and we can perceive no valid reason why it should not be granted. The free admission of the Island sugar and molasses into the United States' possessions on the Pacific coast would not affect Louisiana or any other sugargrowing State, for experience has demonstrated that we cannot send those products around Cape Horn and sell them at a profit. Such a treaty as the one asked for would furnish a ready outlet for the surplus products of California and Oregon without in the slightest degree injuring the interests of any portion of our country.

But what we most need, and ought to have, in our relations with the Sandwich Islands, is a tripartite treaty with England and France guarranteeing their independence and protection from fillibusters. We called public attention to the whole commercial world that the Sandwich Islands shall remain independent and neutral territory.

These Islands are the great recruiting station of our whaling fleet, which consists of some six hundred ships, and are also resorted to by our clippers and merchant vessels as well as the Pacific squadrons of the United States, England, and France. Beyond question this group forms the most important point in a commercial and perhaps military view in the Pacific, and, though not annexed, should be secured against the aggressions of France, the covetousness of England, and the fillibusterism of our own country.

The Sandwich Islands, situated in latitude 21 deg. north, and about 2,500 miles from the American coast, have a population of nearly eighty thousand natives and three thousand foreigners; and though governed by a King are in reality little less than a republic, the people choosing their own legislators and having a voice in all the affairs of the nation. Their staple products are sugar, coffee, and tobacco.

The present King Kamehameha IV. is only twenty-one years of age, and is said to be a young man of fine talents and great promise. He was educated at the Royal School in Honolulu under the direction of the American Mission, and has since traveled in Europe and this country. His inaugural address shows him to be a man of decided character and ability.

A Frenchman was shot on Sunday by George Patton, proprietor of the Farmers' and Drovers' Hotel, one mile from Covington. The Frenchman endeavored to kick in the door of the bar-room-he being twice ejected from the premises. He died on the following day. Patten gave himself up and was held to bail in $2000 to answer.

MR. Buchanan.-Letter has been received at Washington from Mr. Buchanan, in which he states that he shall leave his mission about the last of September, and travel in Europe for some time before returning to the United States.

FALLS CITY HOTEL .- Messrs. Bibb & Son have recently taken charge of the hotel formerly known as the Western Hotel, and more recently as the Planters', on the south side of Main street, between Seventh and Eighth, and they have named it the "Falls City Hotel."-Under the supervision of Mr. Bibb, Sr., the building has been remoddled and undergone a thorough renovation.

Mr. B. has been engaged in the hotel business in this city for many years, and in arranging his house has exhibited his well known judgment. The front rooms on the first floor are appropriated for a gentlemen's sitting room and ladies' parlor-a wide passage dividing them. Immediately back of the gentlemen's reception room is a large dining hall, which is in the first story of the wing. The second and third stories of the wing, as well as the upper stories of the main building, are appropriated for rooms for guests. They are large, cool, and well-furnished. The kitchen and wash-houses are separated from the main building.

We need hardly say anything of Mr. Bibb and his excellent lady. They will always have the best the market affords. Mr. Bibb, Jr., who is associated with his father, is active and polite, and will soon gain popularity with the patrons of the house. We commend the Falls City to our citizens and the travelling community.

COTTON IS KING, or the Culture of Cotton, and its relation to Agriculture, Manufacturers, and Commerce; to the free colored people, and to those who hold that slavery is in itself sinful. By an American. Cincinnati: Moore, Wilstach, Keys, & Co.

We have only spare space to-day to acknowledge our indebtedness to Mr. Crump and to Mr. Ringgold for copies of this remarkable book, but we shall take an early opportunity of noticing it at length. In the mean time we commend it to our readers as one of the most logical and profound books of the day. The abolitionists of the North are scourged with a mass of facts that are irresistible.

The work may be found at Mr. Crump's depot on Fourth near Market, and at Mr. Ringgold's on Fourth near Main.

BOOT AND SHOE HOUSE .- The local editor of this paper was made yesterday the recipient of a pair of Prince Albert shoes by Mr. Criel, of the firm of Piatt, Bucklin, & Co. These shoes are finely finished, and decidedly the article for summer wear. Messrs. P., B., & Co. are wholesale dealers. Their house is 427 Main street, south side, between Fifth and Sixth. No one will go amiss by giving them a call. They have such an endless variety as to be able to suit all tastes and sizes.

The river yesterday continued at a stand with 5 feet 3 inches water in the canal. The steamer H. Lewis came through the canal drawing 51 feet water forward and 61 aft.

The weather yesterday was very warm. At Fletcher's, on Main street, the thermometer stood at 86 in the shade at half past 1, and at 88 at 4 o'clock.

The following, from the Cincinnati Gazette of yesterday, has been alluded to in a telegraphic dispatch:

MANUMISSION OF SLAVES-SUDDEN DEATH OF THEIR MASTER, &c .- Over a year since, Mr. Elijah Willis, of Williston, Barnwell District, South Carolina, came to this city and executed in the office of Jolliffe & Gitchell a will, bequeathing to his wife and her heirs and assignees all his property, real and personal, to the value of $150,000, consisting of two plantations well stocked, and from forty to fifty negroes. 1 urner and children number, are mulattoes, and were held by Willis as slaves. Mr. Willis agreed with Messrs. A. H. Ernst, Edward Harwood, and John Jolliffe, whom he made his executors, that they should be manumitted, and that the executors might dispose of the remainder of his slaves at his death as they deemed best. Mr. Willis returned to his plantation. Yesterday morning he arrived from the South on the Jacob Strader with his wife, her mother, and the six chil-After securing a hack to convey the family up to the Dumas House, Mr. Willis, with a daughter held by each hand, approached the carriage, and was in the act ping in when he was seized with a palpitation of the heart, to which he was subject, and falling backwards he expired in about five minutes Coroner Menzies held an inquest over the body and the jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above fact. Mr. Willis is about sixty years of age, a very respectable old gentleman, and has been married to Mary Amy about thirteen years, and always manifested toward her and the children a warm affection. He has been in bad health several years, and his relatives, who reside in the Barnwell district, have frequently importuned him to give up his business and travel with his family. He left home about four weeks ago, not, as they supposed, to make said trip, but to come to this State, free his family from slavery, and provide them with com-fortable houses on freesoil. Having done this it was his intention to return to South Carolina, settle up his affairs, and live the remainder of his life free from all care and anxiety. Bad health for several years was an additional inducement for him to pursue this course.

Fire in the Jersey Pines .- A correspondent of the Philadelphia Ledger gives an account of a destructive fire in the pines near Malaga, in Gloucester county, N. J.. The cabins in the "coalings" were burnt and two or three persons lost their lives, being surrounded by the flames.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Herald at Guaymas, P. R., writing on May 1, states that the sugar crop would fall very much short this season, owing to the great injury done to the cane by drought. There was a fair supply of provisions, a large stock of sugar, and a heavy lumber market. A portion of the troops in St. Johns had revolted, and, and after causing a scene of terror for a night, laid down their arms on obtaining a curtailment of their term of enlistment from the authorities.

The U. S. Marshall of Ohio arrested on Monday Burnham Morgaridge and his two sons. mail carriers in Ohio, on charges of mail robbery. They were held to bail in $2,000 each in Cincinnati for their appearance.

The Ship Canal of the Saut St. Marie .- A day or two since we published a paragraph from the Detroit Free Press, stating the steamer Northerner had brought intelligence that a portion of the walls of the canal at the Saut had given way, and that the necessary repairs would occupy several weeks. Subsequent letters from Saut St. Marie, to the secretary of the commisioners residing at Detroit, give the pleasing intelligence that the injury done was trifling, and that it only required a few hours to make the repairs.

The New York Herald says that since the 1st of May rents have undergone a very considerable reduction. The same is the case here. Stores on Wall street, which were rented last year for $800, are vacant and are now to be had for $600 per annum.

Enlistment of Sailors .- The great difficulty which was experienced some weeks ago in procuring sailors for the navy no longer exists.— Within the last ten days the enlistment at New York and Boston have been quite large, and fully equal to the demands of the service. A crew has already been secured for the United States frigate Congress, the flag-ship of the Mediterranean squadron.—Wash. Union.

The Crops .- We are sorry to state that a large portion of the wheat fields in this and the adjoining counties are suffering severely from the ravages of the fly. The early crops sustain the greatest injury, while fields that were sown late are comparatively unhurt. A great deal of the oats is quite inferior. The corn needs a good heavy rain very much at this time. Princeton Kentuckian.

THE INCONSISTENCY OF THE MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE. - While the State of Massachusetts is placed in the attitude of hostility to the Federal Government by the enactment of her Legislature in reference to the rights of the negroes, and while her people profess to be shocked at the contemplation of African slavery, and are apparently willing to sacrifice the existence of sympathy for the sufferings of persons whom they fancifully designate as their "colored brethren," we find the same people, by their Legislature, refusing the right of freedom to the poor white man of their own State who has the misfortune to be without money and is unable to pay his debts. These Pharisees strain at a "gnat and swallow a camel." Negroes who are happy and have as much liberty as is suited to their condition, people over whom Massachusetts has no rightful control or jurisdiction, her Legislature has been busily engaged in legislating for; and in their behalf she manifests as fiery and fervid zeal as Peter the Hermit or any other fanatic ever exhibited in the time of the Crusades. There was a bill pending before the present Legislature of Massachusetts to abolish imprisonment for debt, and the last Boston Chronicle alludes to its fate in the following language:

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT TO CONTINUE .-After all the flourish and talk, the poor man in Massachusetts is still to be impounded like a felon if his creditor so elects; in other words, impronment for debt is still an institution of Commonwealth-this dear old relic of the past is still to be preserved intact. The bill abolishing imprisonment for debt was tabled, yesterday, in the House, and tabled it will with-out doubt remain during the rest of the session. Every year there is a great hue and cry raised about this matter—everybody is in favor of the immediate unconditional repeal of the grablaw-but somehow the movement always ends in mere talk. Shylocks, bailiffs, and attorneys need be under no alarm about their favorite law. It remains, and will remain, unrepealed and unrepealable, the Sebastopol of statutes.

That paper [the Louisville Journal], he remarks, had but a short time since, in a controthat "any attempt on the part of the North to re-establish the principles of the Missouri compromise would afford sufficient justification to the South to withdraw from the Union." Greensburg (Ind.) Press.

The Greensburg editor, we presume, did not fabricate this statement; he probably found it in the Frankfort Yeoman. But we wish him to retract it, for there is not one word of truth in it. We never said anything bearing the slightest resemblance to what it ascribes to us. We are trying to promote peace and not agitation, and we hope that papers willing to be honest will be careful not to misrepresent us.

LEXINGTON AND FRANKFORT RAILROAD .-At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lexington and Frankfort Railroad Company, the following gentlemen were elected directors, viz: Benj. Gratz, F. K. Hunt, Geo. Robertson, and Joel Higgins. M. C. Johnson and Philip Swigert are the directors, appointed by the Governor, on the part of the State. James O. Harrison, Esq., is the president of the com-

Governor Wright, of Indiana, has been invited by the New York Agricultural Society to deliver the annual address before the next State Fair, to be held at Elmira, Chemung county, in the first week in October next, and has accepted the invitation.

To the Editors of the Louisville Bulletin:

EVANSVILLE, IND., May 21, 1855.

GENTLEMEN: A decision was given by the Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of this place, on Saturday last, which is quite new to many of the justice-loving citizens. The facts of the case are these:

The sheriff of this county received, on Saturday morning, a telegraphic dispatch to arrest a a boat at Cairo, giving a full description of him, but did not say whether he was a fugitive from labor or a fugitive from justice. The negro was immediately discovered and arrested by the deputy sheriff and held to await the party order ing his arrest.

A writ of habeas corpus was immediately issued on the ground, as was alleged, that there was no charge specified, and he must be released Pending the trial, on the writ of haheas corpus, another despatch was received from the party first telegraphing, saying he was the own-er of said negro, and was then about leaving with witnesses to prove him his. The Judge then, instead of remanding him back to the cusof the sheriff to await the arrival of the party making the charge, awarded him his lib-erty and ordered his discharge from the custody of the sheriff. This, the Judge said, was done on the ground that a telegraphic despatch was not sufficient to warrant any arrest that one party could not delegate any power to another by telegraph. The Judge further said that telegraphic despatches were held of such little force that the cashier of a bank would not withhold the protest of a note on the strength of a despatch alone.

This last we know to be incorrect, as there are hundreds of instances daily where protests are withheld, bills returned, and even large sums of money paid by means of telegraphic dispatches

I would like to see an opinion, from some other tribunal, in reference to telegraphic dispatches warranting the arrest of a fugitive. If an officer cannot arrest and hold the negro on this authority until the party claiming him has time to arrive and prove him, how is the master, se days of rapid conveyance, ever to over take him?

onsiderable interest has arisen on this subject here, and there is a desire to see the opinion of those whose interest it is to know the law in this particular. Will not some of your lawyers give it, or refer to some case in point where decision has already been given SPECTATOR. Yours,

Courts .- The U. S. Circuit and District Courts commenced their spring term on Mon-day last, Judge Catron and Judge Monroe on the bench. Yesterday the trial of Wm. G. Shackelford, upon an indictment for robbing the mail, was commenced. Shackelford was a stage mail, was commenced. Shackelford was a stage driver and is charged with stealing two packages containing money out of the mail he was carrying between Bowlinggreen and the Three Forks P. O.—Commonwealth. BOMBARDMENT OF SEBASTOPOL.

We continue the journal of the bombardment of Sebastopol from the dates to which we gave in our news by the last steamer:

Sixth Day-April 14.—The conjecture which I found so much difficulty in forming this morning turns out to be correct. The severe and protracted conflict on the left which kept us up on Cathcart's Hill beyond the small hours originated in a very resolute and angry sortie of the Russians from the Flagstaff batteries ou the left of the French. At first, the weight of the torrent of armed men which swept the union of the States to a morbid feeling of out of the enemy's line bore back the French in the advanced works, where the covering parties are necessarily thin, and many lost their lives by the bayonet; but our gallant allies contested the ground desperately, and, having re-ceived the aid of an inconsiderable reserve, charged the Russians and drove them right into their own lines, to which they fled with such precipitation that the French entered across the parapet along with them and reached their advanced guns, which they could have spiked had the men been provided with the means of doing so. The enemy poured such volleys of musketry, grape, canister, and round shot on our allies that they were obliged to retire to their own works; and, indeed, no steps had been taken to enable them to secure their hold of the place. As they were retiring under a heavy fire the enemy made another sortie in greater strength and with more determination and fury than before. A sanguinary fight took place between the works, in which the bayonet, the musket-stock, and the bullet were used in a pell-mell struggle, but the French asserted their supremacy once more, and in spite of the fierce charges of the Russians, in defiance of the stubborn resistance evoked by the cries and example of the enemy's officers and by repeated cheers, their trenche forced them battling back across once more, and took possession of a little advanced work, which they held all night, in defiance of the enemy's efforts to dislodge them by a vigorous cannonade, to which the allies replied by incessant shells.

In order to distract the attention of the enemy and prevent too many of them crowding over to the left of the town, Gen. Bosquet sent down word to the men in the trenches on our right to keep up a constant fusillade on the Russian works. The loss of our allies was, I regret to say, considerable in this brilliant affair. report is that they had six officers and 300 men hors de combat, but I believe there were six of-ficers killed and nine officers wounded. The energy and spirit with which the French fought are beyond all praise. This morning our advanced batteries were armed with 14 guns by working party under Col. Smith, 68th regiment. They opened with very great effect at daybreak, and directed so severe a fire against the Russian batteries throughout the day that they were obliged to concentrate the fire of a considerable number of guns upon the two batteries, in order to protect themselves from their destructive We nevertheless maintained our fire, effect. although the position of our batteries exposed them to considerable damage. Lt. Preston, 88th regiment, a young and promising officer, was killed in the tr.nches this morning. It would appear that neither the engineers nor the commanding officers are to blame, but that the mischief arises from the small force available for duty. The men go to the trenches in high spirits now, as Mr. Tower and Mr. Egerton, the administrators of the Crimean army fund, have obtained permission from the authorities to give each man a pint of beer before he starts.

On the morning of the 12th they sent up by rail 1100 gallons of beer and four nine-gallon casks of port wine, to be distributed gratis among the men engaged in the trenches. I saw a party of 900 men of the 4th Division march-ing down on Saturday night to the batteries, and I really believe they could not have looked more cheery and pleasant had they been bound to Greenwich Fair. They were comfortably covered with water-proof cloaks and leggings, and there was a tremendous fire of fragrant tobacco kept up as they marched off jauntily and lightly to the smoke, blood, and dirt of the trenches. By a careful and prudent arrangement the men are kept under cover, but the utmost precaution cannot now prevent casualties. There is a report that a Russian magazine blew up this morn-ing, but that was the only report I heard, as the actual explosion did not reach my ears. The French have kept up a tremendous fire all day. Our batteries are firing with regularity and admirable precision. The Round Tower and Mamelon fire languidly; the latter, indeed, is all but silent, but the large guns from the reenter-ing angle of the westface of the former are very well served and their shot are well aimed. There is a battery opposite the French left, among the houses of the town, which annoys our allies considerably.

Our The Pillars of Flame. 15 .- Lieut. Mitchell, Royal Artillery, was killed while on duty in the trenches. It appears that our fleet is not quite idle. Every night one English, and, possibly, one French man-of-war runs in and discharges a broadside into the south end of the town. The Wrangler was the first, and she is supposed to have done some mischief with her heavy guns. The Valorous went in so close that the enemy caught sight of her, and as she discharged her broadside they sent the very first shot slap through her paddlebox, and obliged her to haul off as well as she could. The batteries continue their fire all day The effect of this continual pounding as usual. is tiresome to a degree beyond all expression. The Redan, Garden Batteries, Bound Battery, and Barrack Battery were worked with activity throughout the day. The Round Tower has had enough of it, and is nearly shut up; and the fire on the Mamelon is so heavy and constant that the enemy cannot get up guns to it.

It was stated that the French would explode their mines (fougades, I believe) this evening at 4 o'clock, then the time was deferred till 6 clock, and finally to an indefinite period of the evening, and the group of spectators, tired of waiting on the hills, retired to their tents. The Field Marshal and his staff were among the number. At half past 8 o'clock, however, three pillars of red flame hurtled through the air, with an appalling crash, from under the batteries of the Flagstaff Bastion, blowing up the parapets and platforms of the outer work, and laying it in ruins. The fourth and principal mine was not exploded, as it was found to be close to the gallery of a Russian mine, and so far the explo-sion failed, and the French were unable to make such a lodgment as was anticipated, but they rushed in and established themselves in the course of the night in a portion of the outer work, and, to the best of my belief, they are there at present. The Russians, believing the explosion was the signal for a general assault, ran to their guns, and for an hour their batteries vomited forth prodigious volumes of fire and smoke against our lines from one extremity to the other. The force and fury of their cannon-ade was astounding, but, notwithstanding the length and strength of the fire, it caused but little damage to the works or to their defenders. Gen. Bizot died in the course of the night.

Eighth Day-April 16 .- The cannonade both sides was very heavy throughout the day, and, as it was calm and fine, the French rocket battery opened in the evening and fired into the dockyard buildings with effect. The railway accumulates more shot and shell at the terminus been diminished to 80 rounds per gun a day.

Ninth Day—April 17.—There is a considerable diminution in the fire of the batteries on both sides this morning. The haze, which lasted all night, has been dissipated by the sun, and has enabled us to see that things in and about Sebastopol are very much as usual.

Tenth Day—April 18.—The batteries have commenced firing with greater energy. There is a report that orders have been issued to reduce our fire to 30 rounds per gun a day.

A Polish deserter has come in, who reports that we missed a golden opportunity last Monday. It appears that the Russians were apprised of the landing and march of the Turks, and received information which led them to believe we were about to attack Liprandi's army. Every available man was sent out of Sebastopol on Sunday last, and when we opened fire on Monday morning they had only 8,000 men in the place. This accounts for their silence and for their surprise. For two days they were working might and main to get their men back from Liprandi's army to the town again, and they have new 28,000 men inside. The deserter says "the place is a perfect hell." There are 300 French sick and wounded in the hospital; no English. The hospital is exposed to fire. All the Poles who have deserted are sent to Varna to join Zamoiski's Polish Legion. About 500 Russian cavalry, escorting a large staff, are now making a reconnoissance of our position in the valley of Balaklava.

Eleventh Day—April 19.—The siege goes on as usual—that is, there are many guns fired every day, tons of powder are discharged, hundreds and thousands of tons of shot and shell are hurled against the Russian earth-works, and the French are making some progress in establishing themselves in front of their lines toward the enemy's batteries, and have gained a bit of vantage ground from them in front of the flagstaff battery. A ship steals close in to the entrance of the roads at night, fires her broadside at the town, and departs.

We have, however, made a much more serious impression on the town and the batteries than we did last year, and our allies, instead of being "snuffed out" by the Russians, have established to a certain extent a superiority of fire, and have maintained a vigorous cannonade and bombardment against the place without remission or feebleness since this day week, inflicting thereby great loss of life and damage to the enemy stronghold.

Association Races. - The spring meeting over the Associated Course near Lexington com-menced on Monday last, with the Association Stake, mile heats, the great trial race for three year olds. In this race ten of the twenty entries appeared at the call, and of the twenty entries appeared at the call, and of the ten four or five were considered almost equal in the betting circles. If anything, however, the winner, Mr. Clay's beautiful Yorkshire filly, had rather the call among the "knowing ones," although many, who remembered that Mr. Warfield's entry was the half-sister of the far-famed "Lexington," and the full sister of the celebrated "Maid of Orleans," did not hesitate to "back her" freely.

The race was a most interesting one, the two last heats especially being well contested, and the time of each fast, the course not being regarded in the best possible condition for time. We annex the results:

John M. Clay's b. f. Balloon, by Yorkshire..... Thos. B. Warfield's b. f. Release..... John Campbell's b. c. by Wagner, dam

by Tranby Dan. McIntire's b. c. by Yorkshire, dam shire, dam by Margrave

Time $\cdots 1:48\frac{3}{4}-1:46\frac{1}{2}-1:49\frac{1}{2}$. The remaining five entries were distanced in the second heat.

The race on Tuesday, two-mile heats, was won by Harper's Glencoe horse Frankfort. Time, $3:43\frac{3}{4}-3:39\frac{3}{4}$.

LIBERIA. -On the 8th of May, the bark Cora, of Baltimore, Capt. Bingham, sailed from that port for Liberia, Africa, with 115 emigrants, from Tennessee, Kentucky, Virginia, and North Carolina. From Kentucky there were 52, viz: Casey county 17, Woodford county 19, Fayette 5, Barren 4, Shelby 2, Boyle 2, Lincoln 1, Jessamine 1, Louisville 1. Of these 25 were males and 27 females. All the males but 2 were under 37 years of age, and all the females but 2 were under 35. Except 14 of the 52, all were over 10 years of age.

Several of the above emigrants could read and write. Many of them were members of the Presbyterian, Baptist, and Methodist churches. All were in good spirits from the hour of leaving Lexington to the time of sailing. They gave no were not molested on attention to the various opinions expressed to them that they were foolish to go to Liberia; and sent back word to to their respective friends by messages and letters, that they were well, and gratified with their care and treatment May He, "who walketh upon the wings of the wind," give to them s safe and prosperous pas-sage. In 34 or 35 days we expect they will land at their new home in Liberia. The Kentucky Colonization Society has been able to meet the expense of the expedition.

Another expedition will leave Kentucky for Liberia the last of October next. For passage write to Rev. A. M. Cowan, Frankfort, Ky.— The Kentucky Colonization Society has to $67 for each emigrant from Kentucky over two years of age, to meet the expense of removal from Kentucky to Liberia, six months support in Liberia, and medical attention during those six months. Papers published in Kentucky please publish the above.—Commonwealth.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT FOR THE BENEFIT OF

The pupils of our City Schools who have been taught vocal music by Mr. L. W. Mason, being desirous of giving a public testimony to his faithfulness and efficiency in the discharge of his professional duties, have determined to tender Mr. Mason the compliment of a Public Floral Concert, to take place on Friday evening next, at Mosart Hall.

The subscribers, having noticed with pleasure the persovering effocts of Mr. Mason in training the pupils of our public schools, to acquire a rudimental and practical knowledge of vocal music, would cheerfully co-operate with the children in the landable effort above referred to, and would cordially recommend the Floral Concert to the public patronage as a home enterprize which all should encourage. With a united effort on the part of our citizens the proposed concert may be made to contribute largely to the happiness and pleasure of both parents and children, and also afford to Mr. Mason a substantial appreciation of his arduous labors.

The following gentlemen have consented to act as a committee of arrangements for the proposed concert, all of whom will have a supply of tickers for sale. We understand that it is the intention of the committee to give no complimentary tickets on this occasion, but to make the concert as far as practicable of a substantial pecuniary advantage to Mr. Mason. This they think due to Mr. M. in view of the large amount of voluntary and unrequited labor which he has bestewed in his concerts on former occasions—and for his persevering labors in the duties of his profession.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO.'S GENUINE Cod Liver Oil.

FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, &c.

THE late film of Rushton, Clark, & Co. being disselved by the Death of W. L. Rushton's (the only Rushton ever connected with the Srm), THEIR GENUINE COD LIVER OIL will in future be prepared only by HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., surviving partners and sole successors. It was Mr. CLARK who went to Newfoundland to superintend its manufacture, and he is the only Druggist who ever went from the U. S. for that purpose, and as he will continue his supervision of that branch of our business, we will warrant our OIL FURS and GENUINE. As success in its use depends upon its purity be particular to see that the signature of HECEMAN, CLARK, & CO., or RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO., is over the cork of each bottle. Hundreds of persons who had been using the Oil of other makers without success have been restored to health by the Purse OIL of OUR MANUFACTURE. Be particular in ordering to specify Urageman, Clark, & Co., as it was Mr. Clark and not Rushton who has superintended its manufacture; and since Mr. Rushton's death there has been a Rushton's Oil introduced which is not in any way connected with Rushton, Clark, & Co., the only representatives of that firm being.

Sold by Wilder & Brother, Wilson, Starbird, & Smith, Linnberger & Co., R. A. Robinson & Co., J. S. Morris & Son, J. Montgomery & Co., Bell, Talbot, & Co., Sutcliffe & Hughes forris, and by druggists generally.

The Intelligencer of this morning publishes a long letter from Mr. Perry, addressed to the President of the U. S., vindicating himself from the charges brought by Mr. Soule. He speaks very severely of Mr. Soule and charges him with complicity with the French revolutionists, and says that his position at Madrid led him to desire war, and that, by transmitting erroneous in-formation, he caused the Ostend conference and compromised our government before Europe. Mr. Perry says that if he has resisted Mr. Soule. foiled him in his cunning, and undone his work he has done so honorably and fairly—abusing no confidence and failing in no duty.

The Baltic sailed from Liverpool on the 5th

The War .- With regard to the seige of Se bastopol, no advantage decisive enough to war-rant an assault had been gained, and it is generally believed that the seige operations must be abandoned for the present.

No general attack has yet been made by the fleet on the sea forts, though each night a single steamer has been enabled to approach sufficiently near them to throw both shot and shell to advantage.

The army before Sebastopol is in good condition; the troops are healthy, well fed, housed and clothed.

Though reinforcements were constantly arriving up to the latest dates, the Allies were neither numerous enough nor sufficiently provided to undertake a long campaign in the interior of the Crimea. According to the latest accounts, the bom bardment was virtually suspended.

Prince Gortschakoff's Account of the Bom-bardment-Dreadful Scenes -- The Invalide Russe publishes Prince Gortschakoff's account of the bombardment to the 15th, and, by telegraph, the Russian official accounts are brought down to the 24th of April. Prince Gortschakoff describes the cannonade which was opened by the Allies on the 9th as being tremendous, its object being to dismount the Russian guns. The beseiged replied with success, and, on the 10th, in less than 4 hours, silenced 50 of their opponents' guns. From this circumstance, Prince Gortschakoff judges that the loss of the enemy must have been considerable. Some of the Rus sian guns and gun-carriages were dismounted, but were immediately replaced by others, and all the damage done to the epaulements and batteries was successfully repaired.

From the 11th to the 14th, says he, not withstanding the enemy continued to cannonade the fortress with great energy during the day, and to bombard it during the night, we have not had many guns dismounted owing to the fortificahaving a sufficient number of traverses and to the batteries being sheltered by the blindages. All our damage is actively repaired dur-ing the night; the dismounted guns are replaced new ones, and the losses of the garrison made good by reinforcements; so that on the 15th Sebastopol was as strong as before the bombardment. Allies, he states, mount 250 guns, and mining operations of the besiegers have successful, and that they are been generally "quite to the taste" of the Russian volunteers, as they offer them an opportunity of displaying their valor. The loss sustained by the garrison from the 11th to the 15th of April is set down a: 7 subalterns and 436 men killed, and 6 supe rior and 34 subaltern officers and 1,829 men

In his dispatch of the 24th, Prince Gortscha koff says: "The fire of the enemy continues, but is slacker. The damage done to the fortifica-tions and the losses of the garrison are also less in proportion."

ENGLISH AND FRENCH ACCOUNTS.

Furious Sortie upon the French Lines-Sap ping of the Flagstaff Battery.—The official dis-patches from Lord Raglan are to the 17th April only, and from Gen. Canrobert to the 16th

Lord Raglan states that the condition of the army before Sebastopol continued to improve, and mortality from disease to decrease. The fire of both English and French batteries had been continued; but, though superior to that of the enemy, Lord Raglen admits that it had not produced that effect which might have been an-

The Sortie from the Flagstaff Battery .- The correspondence which has come to hand since our last gives a description of the furious sortie from the Flagstaff Battery on the French lines, on the 13th. A long and desperate strug-gle took place. Twice the Russians succeeded in entering the parallel in advance of the battery, and twice they were repulsed-the second time with such loss as to compel an immediate retreat. The French made no attempt at puras the enemy were within a stone's throw of their own batteries. General Bizot was wounded in this affair, and, having been struck also with a chance pullet after the close of the has since died lost between 50 and 60 killed and wounded; the Russians a far greater number.

On the 14th the French fired three mines under the Flagstaff Battery, with partial success. The Russians, fearing an assault, opened a furious cannonade along the whole line. On the might of the 17th the French succeeded in mabut on the 19th they were compelled to yield their position.

Brilliant Exploit at the Rifle Pits .- On the same night the English succeeded in capturing the first of the enemy's rifle pits, from which much annoyance and loss to working parties has been caused. Col. Graham Edgerton, the field officer in command of the trenches, who led the attacking party, was killed in the desperate action which took place afterward for the protection of the trenches. In the last affair 50 British soldier secured the trenches against column of Russians 1,000 strong.

The total loss to the English was 2 officers and 21 men killed, and 5 officers and between 40 and 50 men wounded. The enemy lost about 50 killed and twice as many wounded.

On the night of the 20th an attack was made upon the second rifle pit, but the pit was almost immediately abandoned by the Russians.

The Turkish corps took part in a reconnois sance on the 19th, which was undertaken to-wards the valley of the Chernaya, with the view of showing Omar Pasha the ground.

Temporary Suspensions of the Siege-Gather ing of Russian Reinforcements.— Telegraphs from Sebastopol to the 28th ult. state that on that day the allied commanders had suspended their fire, so as not to exhaust their ammunition, and that they were awaiting reinforcements, which were hourly expected. A Russian dispatch, however, dated the evening of the 28th, says: "The fire of the enemy is moderate. Their approaches progress slowly. We have estab-lished, at 100 yards from bastion No. 4, a row of rifle pits, which serve to form a continuous branch of communication."

The information with regard to the gathering The information with regard to the gathering of the Russian reinforcements is obtained from a telegraphic dispatch from Lord Raglan. The dispatch itself has not been published, but it was stated in the House of Commons on the night of the 1st, that it contained an announcement of the Russian army in the neighborhood of Sebastopol, between Balaklava and Mackenzie's Farm, having been reinforced by two divisions of fresh troops.

EVENING BULLETIN. respondent of the Morning Herald, writing on the 15th inst., says:

Fort Constantine and the forts north of the harbor, for the first time, took part in the contest to-day, firing clear across the harbor and town into our own and the French lines. shot appear to be of immense weight, and their guns of considerable range, as no undue eleva-tion apparently was given. About one hundred rounds were fired. Our officers take it as a gentle hint, that, even after storming, the south side will be untenable while the north remains in their hands.

Immense Expenditure of Ammunition .- Du ring the first week of the bombardment, the English trenches alone fired away between 15, 000 and 17,000 32 and 68-pound shot and shell; 7,800 13-inch shells, and 4,500 10-inch shells; making in all about 2,200 tons of shot and 500 tons of powder. The English trenches mounted, on the 15th, 154 guns and mortars; the French 230; so that during the first week's bombardment about 6,000 tons of shot and shell and 1,500 tons of powder were expended.

Great Britain.—The conduct of the war alone seems to interest the British public, and the mismanagement of affairs hitherto, both at the mismanagement of affairs hitherton home and at the seat of war, is exciting univeruneasiness and distrust, both in Parliament and out of doors. A direct communication has been opened between the Crimea and Great Britain, but Government keeps the transmission of all messages in their own hands, and give little or no information. Throughout the country a strong feeling against the ministry is being manifested; "indignation meetings," regarding the couduct of the war, have been held in Derby, Sheffield, and other places; and to-day a meeting of the inhabitants of London will be held, at which the "Administration Reform Association" is proposed to be organized. Similar meetings, prometed by the principal men of all political parties, are to be held in Liverpool and other towns:

Lord John Russell took his seat in the House Commons on Monday night (the 30th ult.) on his re-election for London, and his return from Vienna. He stated to the House that the substance of the several negotiations which had taken place and failed; and intimated that government intended to lay the protocols upon the

The foreigners who were in the rebel service made their escape to Woosung on the day pre-ceding the attack, and treachery on the part of the Canton men admitted the Imperial troops. Lew, the rebel chief, has been beheaded, by

Chin-a-ling has escaped. Less bloodshed that was anticipated took place, and the Imperial Generals showed greatforbearance and humanity toward the people. There was a large sup-ply of powder, &c., in the city, but scarcely any food, and those who were not fighting men were reduced to the greatest straits.

The capture of the city has given universal satisfaction. The marines of the French frigate La Joanne d'Arc assisted in keeping order and preventing robbery. The troops which were encamped around Shanghai have been sent with all speed to operate against Nankin and Chin-kiang, where the rebels are said to be losing ground, but we have no authentic intelligence to rely on.

The United States steamer Powhattan arrived at Shanghai on the 2d inst., wIth intelligence from Japan to the 22d ult. The U. S. treaty was ratified on the Ast.

The island of Niphon was visited on the 23d of Dec. with a most severe earthquake, where-by the towns of Ohosaca and Simonda were destroyed and Jeddo much injured.

The Russian frigate Diana, which was at Japan, with Admiral Pontiatin, on a diplomatic mission, was totally wrecked, but all hands saved. At Canton, the Imperialists have gained a complete victory over a large rebel fleet, and the river traffic is again open to native craft, and large supplies of the necessaries of life are thus conveyed to the Canton market. Previously great distress was felt by the poorer classes, prices being ruinously high. The insurgents have been driven from their headquarters, near Whampoa, the greater part of their fleet taken ullet after the close of the or destroyed, the town of Sanchow burnt, and the audience, as if unable to keep down its feellingth sortie the French Blenheim Fort recaptured. This took place in s, rose three or four time to give vent to on the 7th inst., the Mandarins having strengthened by the adherence of many influential villages, whose "braves" acted on shore and gave no quarters to the rebels who fell into their hands. This success, if promptly and energetically followed up, may be productive of much ultimate good; but it must be remembered that, although this one body of rebels has been destroyed, there are many other bands which must be subdued ere trade can be established on any secure basis. As yet, there is no improve-

> The rebel chiefs have escaped with a portion of their fleet, and will doubtless go to increase the number of pirates who swarm at the entrance and on the river.

[From the London Times's Correspondent.] Successful Engagement before Sebastopolported Insurrection in the Ukraine—Official Communication of Lord Panmure.

A sharp engagement took place on the night of the 1st of May, in front and left attack. The whole of the Russian rifle pits were taken, light mortars, and 200 prisoners The Daily News, under date of May 4, says: On the night of May 2, the French under Gen. Pelissier, having taken up a position before the Quarantine Bastion, advanced briskly upon the Bastion No. 4, attacked the advanced works, which the Russians had raised to protect that Bastion, and carried them at the point of the bayonet In this attack the French took 12 mortars from the enemy. The engineers immediately occupied the ground and began to carry on a flying sap. At daybreak they had succeeded in establishing themselves in the conquered works.

Last night (Thursday) the Russians made a general sortie, with the object of retaking the lost ground. After a sanguinary conflict, they were driven back. Our losses have been great, but bear no proportion to those of the enemy, nor to the advantages gained.

This morning (Friday) the Russians have neither a man nor a gun outside the regular enclosure of the place. [From the London Daily News.]

The Insurrection in Little Russia.—Private letters from St. Petersburg confirm the telegraphic announcement of the insurrection of the peasants in the Ukraine, and state further that it is the confirmation of the peasants in the Ukraine, and state further that is the confirmation of Polesian Conference of Polesi has already extended to the governments of Pol-tawa, Tehernikoff, and Harkoff. The names of zie's Farm, having been reinforced by two ditations of fresh troops. According to the statements of two Polish deserters there are 100,000 Russians in the vicinity of Sebastopol, 60,000 of whom have arrived from Simpheropol.

The North Forts—A Gentle Hint.—The cor-

head of Military News, in which it is stated that an expedition of 25,000 French and English artillery and infantry will be sent out imglish artiflery and infantry will be sent out to be mediately to assist in the operations about to be resumed against the Russian fortresses in the Gulfs of Finland and Bothnia, and the Baltic.

The Campaign in the Crimea.—The Times in the Campaign in the Average that a leading article remarks that everything, in case we are on the point of energetic operations, urges either to attempt an assault or to concentrate our forces suddenly for an attack on the Russian army in the field. The reconnoisance in force of Omar Pacha on the 19th certainly points to the latter, and its results might go some way to decide the Allies in that direction. It appears that, as many sagacious people have long suspected, the Russian force in the neigh-

[Correspondence of the London Pimes.] | Full details of the attempted Assassination Paris, Sunday, April 29, 6 P. M.—The Emperor, accompanied by two of his household, eft the Palace of the Tulleries about 5 o'clock to take his usual ride in the Champs Elysees, and join the Empress, who had proceeded him, and was at that moment in the alley Dauphine, in the Bois de Boulogne. The weather was fine, and the grand avenue of the Champs sees through which he passed at his ordinary slow pace, as well as the side alleys, was thronged with people, who showed the usual courtesy, and saluted him respectfully. As he approached the Barriers de L Etoile, a man apparently about thirty-six years old, of dark complexion, and a little under the middle size, advanced forward from the throngs that crowded the pathway on the right, and approached to within five or six paces of the Emperor. He put one hond to his hat as if to salute His Maesty, who was in the act of replying to the compliment, when he drew a pistol from underneath his gray paletot, deliberately presented it at the Emperor, and fired. At the same moment Col. Ney, who was on the Emperor's right hand, but riding a little to the rear, advanced his horse, when the assassin, supporting his tol on his arm, fired a second shot. At the first report the Emperor's horse shied a little, but it was probable that movement which saved the rider, together with the tremendous motion of the assassin's arm, occasioned by the failure of his first attempt. Neither shot took effect.— The second ball is said to have grazed the Emperor's hat, or even past through it, but this is not known with any certainty. The shots were very sharp, and the report loud enough to be heard on the thid floor of the houses on the side of the avenue. The assassin was at once

After the first shot was fired the Emperor bent his head a little, either by an involuntary movement to avoid the bullet or owing to the horse shying. When he saw the assassin in the hands of the people, and his clothes torn, he called out to spare him, and I am assured his words were, "Epargnez le—ne le tuez pas, le miserable!" The Emperor did not lose his presence of mind for an instant. He gratefully and gracefully replied by frequently taking off his hat and bowing to the thousand acclamations with which he was at once saluted as he still slowly advanced toward the Triumphal Arch. A messenger has been sent on at a gallop to inform the Empress, who was at Porte Dauphine, of what had occurred, and to reassure her as to the safety of her husband.

In less than half an hour, the Empress returned from her drive in an open carriage, with the Emperor riding close by. The sight was the Emperor riding close by. The sight was touching in the extreme; her Majesty was deep-ly affected; her tears flowed in spite of her; she in vain essayed to dry them, and she sobbed convulsively amid her efforts to smile with joy at her husband's escape from the murderer. Evidently she could not subdue her emotion she leaned back in her carriage, and relieved her heart in an uncontrolled burst of tears. Then, indeed, it was that the people who thronged the way gave full vent to the more generous feelings of our nature.

The Emperor had previously announced his intention and that of the Empress to be present at the Opera Comique on the Boulevards Italiens, nearly opposite the Rue Laffitte. He and the Empress, notwithstanding what had occurred, punctual to their words.

They arrived at the theater about 9 o'clock. but long before that hour an immense crowd had collected. It is calculated that there could not have been less than 200,000 people of every condition collected.

The reception was most enthusiastic as the Imperial carriages, attended by an escort of guide, drove up, and on their Majesties appearing in their box, the whole house rose and uttured the warmest acclammations. For a considerable time it was found impossible to commence the piece, and during the performance the audience, as if unable to keep down its feel-

The assassin, on the arrival at the Conciergerie, was at once examined by the Prefect of Police, and then by the Minister of Justice. The examination is kept secret, but it appears that the man's name is, according to his own ac-count, Liverany. He professes himself to be a shoemaker from Rome, where he states he suf-fered much from the French bombardment of that city, and that since then he has sworn a personal hatred to the Emperor, and was resolved to kill him.

This story is not credited, and it is supposed that he is but the instrument of some higher hand, and the agent of those conspirators whose ideas of liberty are inseperably associated with assassination. He is said to be a Piedmontese and to have come from London. His hat and the revolver which he used in his murderous attempt are also described of English manufacture. He remains, of course, in close custody.

THE Castle Builders, by the author of "Hearts' Ease," "The Heir of Redellife," &c. D. Appleton & Co. New York.
A simple but beautiful story, told in a simple and beautiful manner. The author studiously avoids all forced and unnatural incidents, and the equally fashionable affectation of extravagant language. It is destined to great popularity among all classes of readers, for its sketches of life seem to us at once lively, spirited, pathetic, as well as graceful and vivid. All who read it will become interested in its fascinating pages, and close it with the impression that it is a good book, and deserving of universal popularity.

Godey's Lady's Book for May,

Ter.
Bachelors' attentions are particularly invited to this number.
Fibry should not fail to read what Miss Bremer says about marted men. They should not fail to read what Miss Bremer says about the ried men.

Reader, are you a bachelor? If you are, remember marriage is the mother of the world, and preserves kingdoms and fills cities and churches. Cellibacy, like the fly in the heart of an apple, dwells in perpetual sweetness, but sits alone, and is confined, and at last dies in singleness; but marriage, like the useful bee, builds a house and gathers sweetness from every flower. Come with me, my bachelor readers, "I have made up my mind to start." If you would be useful, happy, prosperous, and honored, journey toward the land of wedlock, and when circumstances are favorable, take some partner by the hand, enter its precincts, and with an abiding confidence and pure desire, "settle down" in the midst of its springing delights, there to enjoy the sweets and nurse the babies.
